YORK POLITICS.

Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., Speaks of Official Corruption From the Text, "Except the Lord Keep the City, the Watchman

NEW YORK, June 11 .- Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., delivered today the eighth was one which he may be said to have was chosen from Paalms cxxvii, 1, "Exman walketh but in vain." We have seen thus far in our studies of the city that the evil elements of our civilization naturally gravitate toward the civic center. We have seen that the city is, in fact, the cerspool of the rural district surrounding, and it is a fact that the lower and viler the elements that congregate in this center the more buoyant they seem to be. There is something about the pressure of life in the city which brings the slums to the surface in government, Municipal misrule is one of the most painful facts of modern life. Professor Bryce, who has recently issued his great work on America, makes this true observation:

"There is no denying that the government of cities is the one conspicuous failure of the United States. The deficiencles of the national government tell but little for evil on the welfare of the people. The faults of the state governments are insignificant compared with the extravagance, corruption and mismanagement which mark the administrations of most of the great cities." He enumerates the chief sources of this evil:

"First-Incompetent and unfaithful governing boards and officers.

"Third-The assumption by the legislature of the direct control of local affairs."

present condition of debauchery in city government. But the chief causes lie leeper. They are found in the indifference and selfishness of the governing body, for the people who vote are, after all, the governors of the city. Boards and councils are their creations. It is the vote on election day that decides the government for a given period of time. Boards of aldermen, excise boards, are not self creating. The voting constituency get as good government as they deserve. As a matter of fact, the people are to blame in the last analysis. We have so many loafers who have attained the age of 21 and are entitled to vote, and yet who do not know how to vote, that it is as yet an impossibility to obtain a decent government in our cities.

The evil minded are in a minority, but selfishness and indifference leave the government in the hands of the rabble. Now and then these pious, well dressed, elegant people are aroused by some vigprous denunciation or some ringing call to action. Some glaring outrage has been committed, and they are indignant for a brief season and desire somebody to do something about it. They would like to see the fur fly, but they want somebody else to furnish the fur. When it comes to be a personal matter, it is none of their business, they say. They are in the condition of the little girl who was heard to finish her evening prayer some time ago with these words, "And I saw a poor little girl on the street today cold and barefooted, but it is none of our business, is it, God?" "COLONIAL DAMES," Then we have a great many people who move in what they imagine to be society. They do not vote or take interest in politics for various reasons. Some of them have not sense enough; others imagine that they degrade themselves. A well known German scholar visiting this country was invited to a small reception given in a-city. Only the most prominent of the townspeople were present. He found them well bred, cultured and intelligent. He noticed that most of the men and women present wore peculiar little badges of pins, some plain enamel, others set with diamonds and emeralds. He asked his hostess, "They are orders of American origin?" "Yes," was the reply: "the tokens that their wearers belong to the true American aristocracy. They are colonial dames, sons or daughters of the Revolution. DO YOU KSOW WHO THIS IS?

a livelihood." "They wear badges, then, because they are proud that their grandfathers did what they are ashamed to do? I cannot quite understand," said the puzzled foreigner. What puzzled our foreign visitor puzzles any rational man. Nobody can understand it who has any sense. It simply means that people who had ancestors that were pa-triots now are traitors to the cause which gave their ancestors glory. They deserve the fate of Benedict Arnold rather than to wear heroic badges. The duty of the citizen today is as soldoon men stand together. The gamblers are a fraternity. The brothels make common cause. And the hosts of the saloon, the gambling hell and the brothel form a triumvirate ever ready to do battle in common. They present a serried host in every contest. We have 7,000 saloons in this city, every one of which employs no less than three men. This makes a direct voting constituency of no less than 21,000 voters. There are 10,000 gamblers in the city. This makes about 30,000, the saloon controlling, each of them, more than three men, either dilation Add the vote of the saloon and the gamblers together, and you have a conatituene in this city of not less than 73,000. This is about the vote which Tweed's candidate for register polled when the boss was wearing striped clothes. They stand together in season and out of season, in every contest and under all conditions. They have no regard for public opinion. Ethical standards in no way interfere with their deci-rectly or indirectly, at the lowest calcu-

The corruption of government in our great cities is rapidly assuming proportions that, unless checked, must soon threaten the life of the nation itself. The debauchery of the city of necessity must affect the life of the nation because of the overshadowing influence of the modern city. We do not stop here to discuss this point, which we have presented again and again during this series. We observe the fact:

First-In the supremacy of the slums in the city. By the slums I do not mean the poor in money. By the slums I mean the vicious and the degraded, the criminal and the evil minded. It is a fact that the lowest and vilest elements of the city's life practically dominate it. Take New York as an illustration. I is an illustration of what is true in all the greater cities in lesser degree. We find the center of government in a corrupt society answering to nobody save its boss and the elements of corruption on which it lives and out of which it was born.

ORGANIZED CRIMINALS.

Tammany Hall is the most powerful coterie of organized criminals that ever dominated the life of any people. It makes and unmakes judges and juries, feeds and breeds on vice and crime. With iron heel it crushes the weak, intimidates the half hearted and defies the strong. It is a withering curse to the city's life, damning with hot breath of corruption every ramification of the body politic. Like a cancer, it literally eats the heart out of the honor of the young manhood of our day. And hough it is such an organization it lives and thrives and continues its reign with supreme impudence. I have said many emphatic things about this gang in the past. I have never had occasion to regret one utterance, to take back one sentence. The more I have studied them. the longer I have lived among them, the better I know them, the more utterly impossible it becomes to find language sufficiently emphatic to give any adequate notion of the actual facts.

Glance for a moment today at our goy ernment and test its character. We behold on the judge's bench a man who is about to be arrested for rascality and who had become a drunken loafer, who now receives a salary of $5,000 a year. We have the great and only Paddy Divver on the judge's bench with his noted companion. A biographical sketch of the Hon. Patrick Divver, commonly called "Paddy," leader of the Tammany hosts in the Second assembly district, re lates that "he is the keeper of a sailors" boarding house and is the proprietor or has interests in several liquor saloons, He is an ex-member of the board of aldermen, a race track frequenter and the friend and confidant of gamblers. He is on terms of intimacy with Johnny Matthews and Jake Shipsey, two members of the sporting and gambling fraternity, whose particular methods of gaining a livelihood are unknown to the frequenters of Paddy Divver's and other rumshops on Park row, where they are generally to be found,"

We have also en the judge's bench the distinguished ex-chairman of the board of excise, a man whom I denounced from this pulpit in unmeasured terms at the time of his reappointment on the board, and who carries the brand of that arraignment as originally uttered, though he invoked all the machinery of the courts under the influence of Tammany to protect him from its force. This man, during the pendency of indictments for penitentiary offenses, was elevated by the present mayor of the city to the position of judge. He has shown since his elevation to the judgeship that he is about as thoroughly fitted for the position as would be any criminal whe would be taken from the stockades at Sing Sing and placed upon the bench He pleads for the fact that he was grad uated from Columbia law school, and vet he laid aside his judicial duties a few days ago and appeared as the attorney for a saloon that desired to open a rum hole within less than 200 feet of a church.

THE VALUE OF A "PULL." Second-We see the fact in the debauchery of our courts of justice in our cities. About all a certain grade of our courts in this city and in other great cities are good for is in working various pulls. Some time ago in this city a man was arrested charged with a felonious assault, the penalty of which was seven years in the penitentiary. He was put in jail, and evidence was manufactured sufficient to convict him. But for th intervention of a friend who had money enough to hire a lawyer and prevent the infamy from being consummated the man would have been sent to the penitentiary for a crime committed by another man while he was at home with his family. And this job was put up through the influence of court officers.

A young man came to see me a short time ago who told me that he was arrested on Saturday night on a false charge, and on Monday night he was in the penitentiary on Blackwell's island wearing striped clothes. He had a wife in this city, but she was prevented from holding any communication with him, though he sent telegrams to her from the prison. Every statement made by this young man I have found to be true. When from this pulpit last June !

denounced the infamy of the reappoint ment of Joseph Koch to the board of excise, it was the easiest thing in the world for Mr. Koch to consult a pal on the judge's bench, secure a warrant for my arrest-though he knew every word I said was true-and to compel my attendance from day to day at the Jeffer son Market police court, extending over a period of two weeks, during which time it was necessary to have bondsmer and witnesses waiting at the court. The court was absolutely, from the indee to THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TWO IS NOT THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN TO THE PERSON NAMED IN COLUMN T me scumon wno swept the room, at the command of Mr. Koch. Its whole machinery was used for the purpose of personal annoyance toward me. Mr. Grady from the bench acted both as judge and attorney in behalf of his friend Koch.

When the farce was slosed at the Jefferson Market, the return was sent to the court of sessions. Here it was placed in the hands of another minion of Tammany Hall, who drew the bill of indictment in the shortest space of time, and in 24 hours had pushed aside over 2,000 other cases pending, and by personal canvass of the grand jury, which had been packed for a purpose best known to the leaders of Tammany Hall, my indictment was secured in the briefest imaginative time.

It was only when this so called indictment reached the hands of the district attorney that the farce was stopped. The individuals who were conducting the dirty piece of business knew from the beginning that every word uttered was true. Their only hope was to intimidate any preacher from in the future denouncing their rascality, and to do this work of intimidation they had absolutely at their command the whole machinery of the lower courts up to the court of general sessions, and if they had had a single leg on which to stand and make a fight they would have been at no loss to command this court of highest honor. The debauchery of young manhood under such conditions of government is something appalling. Young men are led to believe that the way to success is the way of rascality; that the road to preferment and power in the city's affairs is through the constituency of the slums. Hundreds and thousands of our best young men have been led into Tammany Hall and into its influence and into similar institutions in other cities thus through their ambition for power and preferment. It is impossible to estimate the influence for evil that such forces exert in the development of the life of a people. Men observe how power and wealth are attained. They also observe the abysmal cowardice of thousands of men who profess to believe in higher principles.

The power of such a gang as Tammany Hall to intimidate masses of people is something appalling. The average citi zen of New York today fairly shakes in his boots at the very mention of a public antagonism of this set of secundrels. If he has any business in the city, whether or not that business may be affected directly by Tammany Hall or not, he may give you a little subscription in private, but he will beg you beneath his breath never to let it be known that he has in any way anything to do with any movement against the bosses who rule the city, OTTO KEMPNER ON BOSSISM.

Fourth-The degradation of municipal government to the mere word of a lowborn boss, with the ideals of the gutter as his principles of life, and the glorifisation of such a man in the annals of the city is a fact that accounts for much of our present disgrace. There was in the last legislature of New York but one man found who among the majority party dared to lift his voice against the rule of this master of the city's affairs. There was but one man among all those elected by the Democratic party who had any conception of his obligations to the people, who acknowledged any authority save the will supreme of the boss of the city of New York. This man-Mr. Otto Kempner—has recently given a most vigorous account of that legislature and of his intimate personal knowledge of the facts on this point. Hear him:

"In every case where a decided expres sion of public sentiment in favor of a bill clashed with the wishes of the boss the people were cleanly and completely knocked out.' There was no more consideration paid to their desires than if they had been so many Chinamen under the ban of instant deportation. On the other hand, the bosses had merely to denote their wish by a wink, and in the twinkling of an eye their will was done. There was no trouble, no delay, no faltering, about the work. The legislative machine was perfect in all its parts and operated with the regularity of an auto matic clock. Poor, impotent Emperor William had to dissolve the reichstag because it refused to appropriate the amount required for the army. Our rulers, however, are more successful. Billy I of Buffalo and Richard I of New York nave merely to raise the finger of command and the people's legislature will obsequiously bow down and obey."

Referring to the problem of quaran tine, he continues: "Has the legislature met the emergency? Has it taken the advice of the Academy of Medicine, the Chamber of Commerce and other representative bodies of public spirited citizens and the press to provide for a competent board of sanitary engineers and place the matter in their charge? No. It passed a bill authorizing a certain city official of inferior mental equipment to confiscate land in the Croton watershed. There is no telling what the entire cost will be. Five hundred thousand dollars is to be spent yearly without providing any essential protection. The simple truth is that this most serious matter was util ized to excuse a gigantic job. Thus the safety of millions of people was sacrificed to satisfy the greed of a few hungry political pirates."

Referring directly to Mr. Croker, he further says: "Together with Ed Murphy and Billy Sheehan he runs the state as a commercial exchange, dealing in local and general franchises, diverse political privileges and public offices from governor down to street sweeper, all of which are auctioned and sold to the highest bidder. This mummy boss is reputed to be one of the wealthy men of New York. Did he come honestly by his wealth, or has it been wrung by indirection from the pockets of the taxpayers? The question concerns us deeply, directly, vitally. But a few years ago Dick Croker had no visible means of support. He is a rich man today and indulges in the costly luxury of fast horses and racing stables that may well excite the envy of prince or potentate.

"It is uppermost in every thoughtful citizen's mind how the leading politicians of Tammany Hall have made big fortunes on small salaries. Have we another Tweed ring? Oh, not There is no stealing going on now. Our rulers are not made of the coarse stuff of common thieves. They are refined in manners as well as methods. All that we can charge against them is that they belong to the new school of political prestidigitators. Without stealing outright, after the clumsy fashion of the embezzler, they still manage to amass enormous riches. How do they manage it? By birthday presents, by taxing crime, by assessing officeholders, by dividing salaries, by bleeding merchants, by extorting can paign contributions, by selling legislative votes, by commissions on public contracts, by shares in corporations in return for political favors, by stock spec ulations on the strength of secret tips given in advance of decisions or con templated actions of judges or legislators and by an infinite variety of artful subterfuges and plausible substitutes for direct theft.

"Oh, no! We have no Tweed ring, but if Tweed were alive today he'd open his eyes in amazement at the 'improvements' invented since his time. He would have to apply to a Tammany leader for a course of lessons in the elementary principles of the new political art of getting unrighteously rich without having to serve a term in Sing Sing prison.

The visitor inquired into the requisites for membership and was told that the badges signified that the wearer was possessed of at least one ancestor who had served the republic in the Revolution or as a civil officer in colonial days. "And the wearers of the badges," he continued, "they also doubtless serve the state. They are statesmen and politicians?" "Oh, no, indeed!" was the amused reply. "Americans of this class seldom vote at all. Politics is considered by them an unclean trade. It is, as a rule, left to the bosses or men who follow politics as emn and heroic as a hundred years ago. And yet because a great many people do not think so we observe the condition of affairs in our cities today. It is a fact, too, that in one sense wealth is responsible for our present degradation of the city government. Many of our rich people who have vested interests in the city do not fight the rulers from the slums for one of two reasons-either because they are afraid to strike them, being vulnerable through their property, or else they find it is more profitable to buy a corrupt city government than to replace it with an honest one. There are certainly millionaires in this city who are hand in glove with Tammany Hall simply because the valuation of their taxa-ble property is manipulated to suit their notions. Millions on millions' worth of property goes untaxed, and the burden is borne by the poor.

Another cause of the present condition of debauchery is that the good are di-vided and the bad are united in the city. There is a power of cohesion in the forces of evil in our civic life that has never been attained by the forces of good. The
